

TRAINING LITTLE CHILDREN

The Real Mother Is as Careful to Train Her Child's Character as to Provide for His Physical Wants Article XXVI—By Miss Harriet Frances Carpenter.

A young mother recently related an occurrence which had repeated itself on several occasions in her home and which she had found most trying. She said "My children go and get their clean stockings and tie knots in them in connection with a game they play, and often when I start to dress the children I can't find a single stocking that hasn't been tied tight several times. One hot summer afternoon, I lost patience, 'Anne,' I exclaimed to the eldest, 'Why do you cause me such annoyance, day after day?' 'What are mothers for?' she asked, and I saw that she was right."

I gravely asked this thoughtless mother if it would not have been better for Anne to aid in the task of untying the stockings, being led, by sharing the toil, to feel grateful for the many times her mother's patient hands had done it for her.

"Oh, she couldn't untie them," she answered with a shake of her head. "Had she tied, and found it impossible, she might, of her own accord, have stopped knotting the stockings," I replied.

"But I wanted to take the children to pay a visit, and there wasn't time enough to let her try." "Then oughtn't she to have forfeited the pleasure of going with you?" She stared aghast; then, with a pitying look, burst out: "It's easy to see that you are not a mother! No mother could do that—her mother-heart would not let her!"

I was silent for a moment, then remembering that physical and spiritual motherhood are not necessarily embodied in the same person, explained without impatience the effect such indulgence would have on the child, and pointed out that the most loving mother takes as great pains to train her children's characters as to provide for their bodily wants, and that the greatest love is that which is most far-seeing. But to the end the mother stoutly held to her conception of the "mother-heart."

A scene observed at a later hour in the day revealed this mother, regardless of her "mother-heart" in a fit of ill temper administering a violent shaking to the said Anne.

"Nora" complained a mother to her sister, "your namesake spoils all of our rides in the new car. She just will go, and then she wants to come home immediately, and kicks and screams all the way. Sometimes we set her out on the road and ride on but she knows that we will have to come back, so that doesn't do any good! You're a kindergartner, Nora, you must break her of it."

"Leave her at home until she shows that she understands that she should not spoil the enjoyment of others," advised the aunt. But this mother flatly refused to do, and the miserable rides continued.

Some time later the mother went on a visit and the aunt was left in charge of her refractory niece. I saw her riding in the automobile several times without the offender. Then one day the small figure sat in its usual place and in the aunt's arms was the two-year-old brother. They called at the door. "Are you having a pleasant outing?" I asked little Nora.

"Yes," she beamed. "I used to spoil our rides; now I'm showing little brother how to make everybody have a good time."

"We had to go without Nora for a few days," remarked the aunt quietly, "but now she is trying to think of others as well as of herself."

In this case the aunt was more truly the mother than the child's own parent. For she understood that mother-love should be something more than the gratification of a passion, and this insight gave her the courage to face the child's passing disappointment for the benefit of her future welfare.

What seems of slight importance at the moment assumes a quite different aspect when considered in the light of its future results.

Please pass this article on to a friend and thus help Uncle Sam reach all the mothers of the country.

LOWER FAIR FOREST

Lower Fair Forest, July 3.—The young people of the neighborhood enjoyed an ice cream supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Bishop last Tuesday night. Everyone had plenty of cream. Games were enjoyed and everyone had a good time.

Mr. John Roberson of Gaffney spent the week-end here with his sister, Mrs. George Barnett.

Bennie Bishop, who enlisted in Uncle Sam's service, left Monday for Columbia, where he is to take a mechanical course at South Carolina University.

LIFE AT SEAPLANE TRAINING CAMP

American Seaplane Training Camp, Italy, May 30.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—A flying day on the beach here, with the roaring of the engines of dozens of seaplanes overhead, on the water, starting out or returning, with cries of command in two or three languages, presents a stirring picture.

Life and death hang in the balance every instant. Those in command are far more apprehensive than they care to show. "You can't make omelettes without breaking eggs," they explain, as they watch a machine beginning to nose too soon preparatory to making a landing.

"Look at him, he's sure to cut in on that other fellow and bump him," one exclaims. To the uninitiated the two aviators who are trying to make a landing near the home beach seem to have hundreds of yards of space in which to manoeuvre but the officers know they have but little space. As the two machines are travelling at 85 to 90 miles an hour on their nose dive, the matter of a possible collision is soon settled, and favorably. Both hit the water safely on their tails—the proper way—and race across the lake snorting like a thousand seahorses, gradually turn, and come home.

So soon as the camp commander in charge of the Beach saw the two machines take the water safely, his mind turned to other matters. There is a special instructor who sits with a chart before him with the name of ever student flying this day upon it, and he records merit or demerit marks there for every good or bad move the fliers make, and this will be submitted to the commander later and proper observations made to the aviators.

"You must be careful in this business not to discourage the fellows," explained one of the officers. "Their nerves are their courage, their flying ability, and if you take away their courage, their confidence, you may spoil a good aviator."

"Look out there, you'll break those wings," called the American commander as two seaplanes came shooting up the beach, too close together for comfort. The helpers in the water seized them and dragged them in to a safe landing. "That's one of the troubles with having too many machines about," explained the commander.

"When a seaplane starts in for the beach the aviator cuts off the power and then he can't steer it any longer. When the wind is unfavorable or the water is rough, they have to make several trials sometimes before they can get in head on."

There are men here from Little Rock, Arkansas, Chicago, Boston—everywhere. "It's a pretty dull place here," said one. "When do you think they will send us to the front?"

"Have you heard if we are going on the Italians or the French front?" asked another. "I wish you'd tell the people at home to write us often," put in a rosy cheeked ensign of twenty. "Somehow, seems to take a month and more for us to get letters. Tell them, too, we can't write much from here because our letter are censored, and we don't like to have somebody see every day censor our mail and read our private letters."

Most of them were eager to get on the front and into the fighting. "That's real sport," explained. One man has been lost at this camp so far, but his death hasn't frightened any of the others. They figured out that perhaps he cut off his power too soon before nosing. Anyway, they don't intend the same accident shall happen to them before the end of the war.

"Then," said one with a laugh, "we're going to shake fighting and take up the safer, passenger-carrying end of the business."

restores vitality and energy by purifying and enriching the blood. You can soon feel its strength-enriching, invigorating effect. Price 60c.

The profitable dairy cow helps to feed our army forces and will help us win the war, but the low producing, unprofitable scrub is little better than a slacker. She may enjoy perfect health, and have a large appetite; she may even belong to one of the best cows, but if she is not an economic producer she should be converted into meat.

The Quinine That Does Not Affect the Head
Because of its tonic and laxative effect, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE is better than ordinary Quinine and does not cause nervousness nor ringing in head. Remember the full name and look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. 30c.

LEMONS MAKE SKIN

WHITE, SOFT, CLEAR

Make this beauty lotion for a few cents and see for yourself

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to whiten the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quarter pint of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will remain pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons.

Reasons!

Why you should use Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles, have been shown in thousands of letters from actual users of this medicine, who speak from personal experience. If the results obtained by other women for so many years have been so uniformly good, why not give Cardui a trial?

LIKE AN ELECTRIC BUTTON ON TOES

Tells why a corn is so painful and says cutting makes them grow

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp points down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freezone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it lifts right out, root and all, without pain. This drug freezone is harmless and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin.
